Venice from the Ground Up James H. S. McGregor, 2008-04-30 Venice came to life on spongy mudflats at the edge of the habitable world Protected in a tidal estuary from barbarian invaders and Byzantine overlords the fishermen salt gatherers and traders who settled there crafted an amphibious way of life unlike anything the Roman Empire had ever known In an astonishing feat of narrative history James H S McGregor recreates this world turned upside down with its waterways rather than roads its boats tethered alongside dwellings and its livelihood harvested from the sea McGregor begins with the river currents that poured into the shallow Lagoon carving channels in its bed and depositing islands of silt He then describes the imaginative responses of Venetians to the demands and opportunities of this harsh environment transforming the channels into canals reclaiming salt marshes for the construction of massive churches erecting a thriving marketplace and stately palaces along the Grand Canal Through McGregor's eyes we witness the flowering of Venice's restless creativity in the elaborate mosaics of St Mark's soaring basilica the expressive paintings in smaller neighborhood churches and the colorful religious festivals but also in theatrical productions gambling casinos and masked revelry which reveal the city's less pious and orderly face McGregor tells his unique history of Venice by drawing on a crumbling tide threatened cityscape and a treasure trove of art that can still be seen in place today The narrative follows both a chronological and geographical organization so that readers can trace the city's evolution chapter by chapter and visitors can explore it district by district on foot and by boat

Civil Rights History from the Ground Up Emilye Crosby, 2011 After decades of scholarship on the civil rights movement at the local level the insights of bottom up movement history remain essentially invisible in the accepted narrative of the movement and peripheral to debates on how to research document and teach about the movement This collection of original works refocuses attention on this bottom up history and compels a rethinking of what and who we think is central to the movement The essays examine such locales as Sunflower County Mississippi Memphis Tennessee and Wilson North Carolina and engage such issues as nonviolence and self defense the implications of focusing on women in the movement and struggles for freedom beyond voting rights and school desegregation Events and incidents discussed range from the movement's heyday to the present and include the Poor People's Campaign mule train to Washington D C the popular response to the deaths of Rosa Parks and Coretta Scott King and political cartoons addressing Barack Obama's presidential campaign The kinds of scholarship represented here which draw on oral history and activist insights along with traditional sources and which bring the specificity of time and place into dialogue with broad themes and a national context are crucial as we continue to foster scholarly debates evaluate newer conceptual frameworks and replace the superficial narrative that persists in the popular
