State Restructuring and Urban Transformation in South Africa Sophie Oldfield,2000 Chinese Urban Transformation Chen Yuanzhi,Alan Hudson,He Lisheng,2019-06-27 Now an established global force China has experienced a sustained period of staggering economic growth since policy reform in the 1970s Chinese urbanisation is the most significant example of economic environmental and social change both within China and globally In recent years central government has made a concerted effort to encourage city governments to realign their priorities and achieve a balance between economic efficiency social justice and environmental protection Chinese Urban Transformation A Tale of Six Cities is a fascinating exploration of the dramatic development Chinese cities have undergone Tracing this transformation through a comprehensive analysis of social and economic change in six cities it unravels the complex relationship between policy outlook and role that urban development plays in China s view of itself including the tensions resulting from rapid social and economic change Urban Sustainability Transitions Niki Frantzeskaki,Vanesa Castán Broto,Lars Coenen,Derk Loorbach,2017-06-14 Balanced Perspectives on Different Urban Ecosystems Rethinking Urban Transitions Andrés Luque-Ayala,Simon Marvin,Harriet Bulkeley,2018-03-15 Rethinking Urban Transitions provides critical insight for societal and policy debates about the potential and limits of low carbon urbanism It draws on over a decade of international research undertaken by scholars across multiple disciplines concerned with analysing and shaping urban sustainability transitions It seeks to open up the possibility of a new generation of urban low carbon transition research which foregrounds the importance of political geographical and developmental context in shaping the possibilities for a low carbon urban future The book s contributions propose an interpretation of urban low carbon transitions as primarily social political and developmental processes Rather than being primarily technical efforts aimed at measuring and mitigating greenhouse gases the low carbon transition requires a shift in the mode and politics of urban development The book argues that moving towards this model requires rethinking what it means to design practise and mobilize low carbon in the city while also acknowledging the presence of multiple and contested developmental pathways Key to this shift is thinking about transitions not solely as technical infrastructural or systemic shifts but also as a way of thinking about collective futures societal development and governing modes a recognition of the political and contested nature of low carbon urbanism The various contributions provide novel conceptual frameworks as well as empirically rich cases through which we can begin to interrogate the relevance of socio economic political and developmental dimensions in the making or unmaking of low carbon in the city The book draws on a diverse range of examples including world cities and ordinary cities from North America South America Europe Australia Africa India and China to provide evidence that expectations aspirations and plans to undertake purposive socio technical transitions are both emerging and encountering resistance in different urban contexts Rethinking Urban Transitions is an essential text for courses concerned with cities climate change and environmental issues in sociology politics urban studies planning environmental studies geography and the built environment Cities in Transition: from the Ancient World to Urban America Frank J. Coppa, Philip C. Dutt, Robert W. Bradnock, 1999 These two volumes provide a panoramic survey of the patterns causes and consequences of urbanization in Asia The volume I examines the physical aspects of urbanization and the Volume II deals with the human and environmental impacts Together they form a ground breaking insight into the nature and prospects of Asian urbanization Adapt du r sum de l diteur The Politics of Urban Sustainability Transitions Jens Stissing Jensen, Matthew Cashmore, Philipp Späth, 2018-10-17 Cities the world over are increasingly recognised to be both a principal source of the environmental and social sustainability challenges facing contemporary society and a critical site for addressing these challenges Socio technical systems are at the heart of these challenges as they configure central aspects of urban life from mobility and energy infrastructures to leisure activities and patterns of mobility This observation has led to substantial interest in how societies might initiate and actively steer radical transitions in these systems in the pursuit of sustainable urban futures This book contributes to emerging debates on the politics of urban transitions by examining the intimate interlinkages between knowledge power and governance Drawing upon real world examples of urban governance the authors explore the strategies struggles and controversies involved in configuring knowledge and how knowledge constructions influence governance by rendering some concerns and issues visible and valuable while obscuring others The book draws attention to how novel ways of conceptualising knowing and observing socio technical systems may be harnessed productively in redefining the power relationships underpinning unsustainable practices Understanding these dynamics can ultimately inform and enable new approaches to support much needed urban transitions This book provides a compelling examination of urban knowledge politics for the twenty first century that will be of great value to academics policy makers and practitioners working in the social sciences urban studies geography urban governance or sustainability transitions
