Archaeological Theory in Europe Ian Hodder, 2014-10-30 The 1980s witnessed exciting developments in theoretical writing in Western archaeology where previous decades were dominated by the Anglo American perspective or New Archaeology the recent years showed the European debate grow in confidence and vitality This book published in 1991 captures this spirit of debate as contributors from a wide cross section of countries evaluate the development of the distinctly national and European characteristics of archaeology and assess future directions Contributors consider an extensive range of ideologies and viewpoints stressing the fundamentally historical emphasis and social construction of European archaeology The development of archaeological theory is traced with specific emphasis on factors which differ from country to country Ultimately it argues that the most active response to archaeology is to celebrate theory within a constantly critical mode A great insight into the development of theory A Russian Perspective on Theoretical Archaeology Stephen Leach, 2016-07-01 Both the work and the life of Leo S Klejn Russia's foremost archaeological theorist remain generally unrecognized by Western scholars Until now In this biography and summary of his work Stephen Leach outlines Klejn's wide ranging theoretical contributions on the place and nature of archaeology The book details Klejn's diverse work on ethnogenesis migration Homeric studies pagan Slavic religion homosexuality and the history of archaeology his life challenges as a Russian Jewish scholar jailed for homosexuality by the KGB and for his challenges to Marxist dogma his key contributions to theoretical archaeology and in particular Klejn's comparisons between archaeologists and forensic scientists

TRAC 2000 Gwyn Davies, Andrew Gardner, Kris Lockyear, 2017-06-30 Thirteen papers on Roman archaeology from the 10th TRAC conference in London The tenth Theoretical Roman Archaeology Conference was held in April 2000 at the Institute of Archaeology As the conference was divided into five different sessions In the opening session Representing Romans the methodology of portraying the Romans to the wider world was explored Hunter and Clarke's paper outline the challenge of designing appropriate gallery displays for the new National Museum of Scotland whereas Grew discusses the development of Roman London Fincham's paper discusses the threat of overwhelming military intervention by the imperial power in colonial negotiations Issues of ethnicity gender class and occupation within the later Roman army are addressed here Green's paper presents an important discussion of the nature of human stag hybrids in iron Age and Gallo Roman iconography and Hawkes presents an analysis of differential foodways preparing and serving meals encountered in Roman Britain Carr considers the role of body decoration and grooming arguing that individuals in different areas of south eastern Roman Britain made different cultural choices to structure their ethnic identities The final set of papers focused on Constructing Childhood in the Roman World reconsidering some long standing truisms regarding the status and treatment of children in the Roman context Pearce s examines Roman infant burial and what role religion plays in burial ceremony

Theory in Archaeology Peter J. Ucko,2005-08-10 Theory in Archaeology tackles important questions about the diversity in archaeological theory and practice which face the discipline in the 1990s What is the relationship between theory and practice How does World archaeological theory differ from European Can one be a good practitioner without theory This unique book brings together contributors from many different countries and continents to provide the first truly global perspective on archaeological theory They examine the nature of material culture studies and look at problems of ethnicity regionalism and nationality They consider too another fundamental of archaeological inquiry can our research be objective or must the past always be a relativistic construction Theory in Archaeology is an important book whose authors bring together very different perceptions of the past Its wide scope and interest will attract an international readership among students and academics alike
