Congressional Research Service,1981 The Struggle for the Third World Jerry Hough,2010-12-01 In the last quarter century the Soviet Union and the United States have repeatedly come into conflict in various parts of the third world During this period the most backward third world countries have sometimes proved susceptible to radical revolution but the countries well on the way to industrialization have moved away from left wing economic and political policies In the longer perspective the West has been winning the struggle for the third world The changes in those countries have been the subject of intense published debate in the Soviet Union debate on Marxist concepts of the stages of history on theories of economic development and revolutionary strategy and on foreign policy Jerry F Hough explores the breakup of the orthodox Stalinist position on these issues and the evolution of free swinging discussion about them He suggests that paradoxically many of the old Stalinist ideas retain their strongest hold in the United States which has not fully recognized its victory in the third world and the importance of the West s great economic power The United States too often assumes that radical regimes will inevitably follow the Soviet path of development and that the nature of a regime determines the nature of its foreign policy Because of these misperceptions Hough argues the United States misses many opportunities in the third world It emphasizes military power even to the extent of undermining its crucial economic power and it fails to offer the face saving gestures that would permit Soviet retreats Hough presents a prescription for an American policy better suited to the new realities in the third world and to the changing Soviet attitude toward them The Soviet Union and the Strategy of Non-Alignment in the Third World Roy Allison,1988-12-15 This study investigates the overall Soviet conception of non alignment in the Third World and assesses Soviet policy in relation to this issue USSR and Third World ,1988 Gorbachev's Economic Strategy in the Third World Giovanni Graziani,1990-02-15 Giovanni Graziani examines Gorbachev s reforms in terms of economic relations with the Third World and presents a detailed and sophisticated statistical analysis of Soviet economic assistance and trade This book critically evaluates all the statistical data from Soviet and United Nations sources and presents the changing Soviet attitude toward indebtedness and the growing dissatisfaction expressed by both the Third World and the U S S R over the management of Soviet aid The author notes a contradiction between Gorbachev s strategy and statistical evidence for the first years of his office but stresses that the recent moves to trade with South Korea and other Asian countries are bound to affect the Soviet geographical pattern of trade His estimates show the increasing importance of agricultural products and fuels in Soviet imports and of military equipment and fuels in its exports Particularly interesting is what Graziani calls the oil imbroglio a triangular trade pattern in which the U S S R has increased its imports of crude oil from the Third World for reexport to the West in order to stabilize its export earnings in hard currencies threatened by falling oil prices The book concludes that no expansion of Soviet economic ties with the Third World is foreseen in the short run and that eventual Soviet participation in international economic organizations might further entail new conflicts with the Third World The Third World and the Soviet Union Zaki Laïdi,1988 SCOTT Copy 1 From the John Holmes Library Collection

Soviet Policy in the Third World Walter Raymond Duncan,1980 The Soviet Union and the Third World Elizabeth Kridl Valkenier,1983 Soviet National Security Policy Under Perestroika George E. Hudson,2021-01-26 This book first published in 1990 examines the nature and causes of the changes to Soviet national security policy under Gorbachev Changes in leadership and institutional arrangements economic policy ideology and military involvement all fostered new patterns of cooperation and competition Authors look at the historical economic and cultural contexts of change and proceed to a discussion of change agents such as modernization technology and domestic politics Specific components of foreign and military policy such as arms control and relations with Western Europe the Warsaw Pact and the Third World are also examined Year Book of Soviet Foreign Relations 1991 Alex Pravda,1991-12-31 This reference book records the details underlying Soviet foreign relations with the rest of the world during 1990 The book contains region by region reviews giving a narrative account of the year s events and an analysis of their political significance There is also a country by country section giving the dates of events important in relations between the Soviet Union and the respective countries There is also an overview of the military and economic factors governing Soviet foreign policy details of Soviet activity in international organizations and a personnel listing
