Usewear Analysis And Obsidian:

Use Wear Analysis and Obsidian Linda M. Hurcombe, 1992-01 This volume investigates a technique for the functional analysis of obsidian tools and a small archaeological case study the lunates from the Bronze Age Sardinian site of Ortu Comidu is examined using the technique and approach It reviews the current state of flint use wear studies and applies the theories generated there to obsidian The experimental programme shows the potential success of the technique which can allow the use action and use material to be interpreted and demonstrates the limitations Residues play an important role as they are more easily seen on obsidian than flint The discussion includes an assessment of wear formation theories and the role of functional information within archaeology The technique and approach is brought to bear on a small archaeological case study the lunates from the Bronze Age Sardinian site of Ortu Comidu

Use-Wear and Residue Analysis in Archaeology João Manuel Marreiros, Juan F. Gibaja Bao, Nuno Ferreira Bicho, 2014-11-06 This book is designed to act as a readily accessible guide to different methods and techniques of use wear and residue analysis and therefore includes a wide range of different and complementary essential topics experimental tests observation and record methods and techniques and the interpretation of a diversity of tool types and worked raw materials The onset of use wear studies was marked by the development of theory method and techniques in order to infer prehistoric tools functionality and therefore understand human technological social and cultural behavior The last decade of functional studies use wear and residue analysis have been aimed at the observation recording and interpretation of different activities and worked materials found on archaeological tools made on different types of organic and non organic materials This international group of contributions will be fundamental for all researchers and students of the discipline

Lithic Use-wear Analysis Brian Hayden, 1979 Includes papers by J Kamminga which has been annotated separately An Experimental Approach and Use-wear Analysis of an Obsidian Assemblage from the Coromandel, New Zealand Rose A. Young, 2019 Most studies of M ori socio economy have claimed there was a major shift in the subsistence strategy mobility degree and settlement pattern over time but have not been explicit in how these changes are visible in stone artefact assemblages This thesis investigates how use wear and a technological analysis of obsidian artefacts can be used as a proxy for detecting change or a lack of change in mobility degree and settlement systems at one site A range of experiments were conducted to demonstrate how use wear appears and to provide examples to compare with archaeological flakes A sample of flakes from a M ori site in the Waitapu area located on Great Mercury Island off the coast of the North Island New Zealand was technologically analysed and examined for use wear The site has two periods of occupation and obsidian artefacts from both contexts were analysed to allow for a comparison When compared the results from the two temporal contexts show there was no significant difference in the average extent of use wear nor the proportion of used artefacts Flake selection is indicated with used flakes significantly larger than those that lack use wear The results from this thesis are not able to support the suggestions of substantial shifts in Mori socio economy in the Waitapu area and so provides an example for future use wear studies in New Zealand

International Conference on Use-Wear Analysis Nuno Bicho, Juan F. Gibaja, 2015-01-12 The significance of use wear studies in archaeological research plays an important role as a proxy to prehistoric techno cultural reconstruction The present volume divided into five thematic sections includes chapters discussing various different research methods techniques chronologies and regions As such this volume will be of interest to both archaeologists and anthropologists
