Landscape of the Megaliths Mark Gillings, Joshua Pollard, Rick Peterson, David Wheatley, 2010-03-01 This volume describes the results of the Longstones Project a joint universities programme of excavation and survey designed to develop a fuller understanding of the context and dynamics of monument construction in the later Neolithic 3rd millennium BC of the Avebury region Wiltshire Several elements of this internationally important prehistoric monument complex were investigated an early mid 3rd millennium BC enclosure at Beckhampton the recently discovered Beckhampton Avenue and Longstones Cove a section of the West Kennet Avenue the Falkner's stone circle and the Cove within Avebury's Northern Inner Circle The research sheds new light on the complexities and development of this monument rich area and consideration is given to the questions of how and why ceremonial centres such as that at Avebury came into being in the 3rd millennium BC The importance of understanding the agency the affective and perceived inherent qualities of materials and landscapes is stressed and the unusual character of the Wessex monument complexes is highlighted by comparison with the format and sequences of other ceremonial centres in southern Britain The second part of the monograph tracks the later post prehistoric lives of Avebury's megalithic monuments including a detailed account of the early 18th century records of the Beckhampton Avenue made by the antiquary William Stukeley

The Remains of Distant Times David Morgan Evans, Peter Salway, David Thackray, 1996 The National Trust owns approximately 40 000 archaeological sites in England Wales and Northern Ireland and in 1995 its centenary year the Trust in close co operation with the Society of Antiquaries held a conference designed to highlight the important part archaeology now plays in the management of its properties Historic houses so long identified as the main interest of the National Trust were touched on only in so far as they offer an opportunity or provide the context for archaeological research

The Neolithic of Britain and Ireland Vicki Cummings, 2017-05-18 The Neolithic of Britain and Ireland provides a synthesis of this dynamic period of prehistory from the end of the Mesolithic through to the early Beaker period Drawing on new excavations and the application of new scientific approaches to data from this period this book considers both life and death in the Neolithic It offers a clear and concise introduction to this period but with an emphasis on the wider and on going research questions It is an important text for students new to the study of this period of prehistory as well as acting as a reference for students and scholars already researching this area The book begins by considering the Mesolithic prelude specifically the millennium prior to the start of the Neolithic in Britain and Ireland It then goes on to consider what life was like for people at the time alongside the monumental record and how people treated the dead This is presented chronologically with separate chapters on the early Neolithic middle Neolithic late Neolithic and early Beaker periods Finally it considers future research priorities for the study of the Neolithic
