The Power Of The Deltics Power Series:

The Power of the Deltics John Stuart Whiteley, Gavin W. Morrison, 1977 Introduced in 1961 the Class 55 Deltic locomotives rapidly became popular with their crews due to their high average speeds and ability to clock up large mileages This volume celebrates the Deltic and traces the number of technical changes that were made to the locomotive over the years

The Deltics & Baby Deltics Andrew Fowler, 2021-06-30 Andrew Fowler is a well known writer of railway history with a regular feature in Railway Herald Magazine The Deltic class 55 Locomotives were some of the most successful first generation diesels introduced to British Railways being constructed from 1960 1962 and numbering twenty two in the production class The prototype machine was constructed in 1956 and was tested extensively on express trains on the London Midland and Eastern Regions of B R until 1960 The interest and enthusiasm for the class is reflected in the fact that six examples of the class are preserved including the 1956 prototype The Baby Deltics were a derivative Locomotive design using one rather than two engines for use on outer suburban and short main line semi fast services Only ten Baby Deltics were constructed between 1961 1962 for use on services out of London Kings Cross The Baby Deltics were all withdrawn within a decade as they were not very successful in main line service

English Electric Type 2 Bo-Bo 'Baby Deltic' Locomotives Anthony P Sayer, 2025-03-30 The British Railways Pilot Scheme orders of 1955 included ten English Electric Type 2 diesel electric locomotives deploying Napier Deltic engines These locomotives more colloquially known as the Baby Deltics were introduced into traffic during 1959 for use on the Eastern Region of British Railways This book looks at the history of the Class 23s making extensive use of available but previously unpublished archive material covering their introduction technical idiosyncrasies appearance design and performance Issues with the original Deltic engines were ultimately dealt with via a major rehabilitation exercise during the 1963 65 period whilst various re engineering options were considered including a new U series English Electric high speed engine design the original Napier engines were ultimately retained The work involved in the whole rehabilitation process is discussed in detail using internal English Electric archive material and forms a central focus of research The fleet survived intact until 1968 when withdrawal commenced as a direct result of declining traffic levels across the UK with successive National Traction Plans progressively selecting the less successful non standard and numerically challenged classes for removal from traffic All ten locomotives were withdrawn by March 1971 Individual locomotive histories allocations fire and accident incidents liveries and detail differences storage and disposals are provided for each locomotive

British Coastal Forces Norman Friedman, 2023-04-30 The Royal Navy invented the fast motor torpedo boat during the First World War and used it and other small coastal craft to great effect during the Second This book tells the dramatic story of British coastal forces both offensive and defensive in both World Wars and beyond In the Second

World War British coastal forces fought a desperate battle to control the narrow seas particularly the Channel and the North Sea and took the war to the coasts of German occupied Europe fighting where larger warships could not be risked They also made a significant contribution to victory in the Mediterranean but it was primarily warfare in home waters that shaped wartime British Coastal Forces and left lessons for postwar development In this book Norman Friedman uniquely connects the technical story of the coastal craft and their weapons and other innovations with the way they fought In both world wars much of the technology was at the edge of what was feasible at the time Boats incorporated considerable British innovation and also benefited from important US contributions particularly in supplying high powered engines during World War II In contrast with larger warships British coastal forces craft were essentially shaped by a few builders and their part in the story is given full credit They also built a large number of broadly similar craft for air sea rescue and for completeness these are described in an appendix This fascinating dramatic story is also relevant to modern naval thinkers concerned with gaining or denying access to hostile shores The technology has changed but the underlying realities have not This book includes an extensive account of how coastal forces supported the biggest European example of seizing a defended shore the Normandy invasion That was by far the largest single British coastal forces operation demanding a wide range of innovations to make it possible Like other books in this series this one is based very heavily on contemporary official material much of which has not been used previously like the extensive reports of US naval observers who were allowed wide access to the Royal Navy as early as 1940 Combined with published memoirs these sources offer a much more complete picture than has previously appeared of how Coastal Forces fought and of the way in which various pressures both operational and industrial shaped them
