Structured Programming:

A Structured Programming Approach to Data COLEMAN,2012-12-06 Much of current programming practice is basically empirical and ad hoc in approach Each problem is tackled without relation to those that have gone before experiences are made and stored as a series of fragments Now under the pressure of events this unsatisfactory state of affairs is coming to an end Programming is becoming a technology a theory known as structured programming is developing The purpose of a theory is to categorise and explain existing practice thus enabling it to be improved through the development of new and sharper techniques The resulting experiences have then to be fed back into the theory so that the process of enrichment may continue This dialectical relationship between theory and practice is essential to a healthy programming technology The lack of such a relationship in the 1950s and 60s and the accompanying software crisis certainly confirm the converse of this proposition My aim in writing this book has been to explain the current state of the theory of structured programming so that it may be used to improve the reader s practice The book deals with two facets of programming how to design a program in terms of abstract data structures and how to represent the data structures on real and bounded computers The separation between program design and data structure representation leads to more reliable and flexible programs

Structured Programming with COBOL Examples Earl H. Parsons,2002-11 As the conversion of legacy systems continues the ability to understand embedded business rules becomes more and more critical This ability is directly related to the structure of the programs within those systems We also see the need to teach structured programming to a new generation of programmers who must maintain the billions of lines of existing COBOL code The ultimate purpose of this text is to discuss how to judge the level of structure of a program We do this by defining structured programming and then discussing how a structured program can be built through the application of the concepts of coupling and cohesion We also show how embedded business rules of the program can be separated from the data and presentation functions The reader will be able to use to these skills to judge and to improve the structure of a new program or an existing program
