especially the implications for development of the world's two most populous countries Journal of West Indian Literature, 2005

Out of Asia Bert Cardullo, 2008 Out of Asia: The Films of Akira Kurosawa, Satyajit Ray, Abbas Kiarostami, and Zhang Yimou is a collection of interviews with and essays about the four filmmakers who introduced the cinema of their respective countries to the West: Kurosawa (Japan) and Ray (India) in the 1950s; Kiarostami (Iran) and Zhang (China) in the 1980s. Kurosawa and Ray were post-World War II phenomena as the new breed of American cinephiles demanded more contact with Asian cultures of which they had known little until the 1940s. Kiarostami and Zhang, for their part, are both post-revolutionary filmmakers whose films have helpfully introduced Americans to two Eastern cultures with which the American government has long had and continues to have a problematic relationship. As a whole, then, Out of Asia documents an alternative to Western brands of cinema even as these four foreign directors, with the possible exception of Kiarostami, integrate Western forms, styles, and genres into their own native traditions. As such, these artists could be said to represent a global filmmaking perspective that now more than ever this world and the American nation can use. Each of the interviews in this volume is accompanied by an overview of the director's career or an essay on representative films by him. In addition, Out of Asia is preceded by a contextualizing introduction, it is followed by filmographies, a bibliography, and an index, and the book is interspersed with photographs of the four directors in question or stills from their films. There are books devoted to individual filmmakers like Kurosawa, Ray, Kiarostami, and Zhang, but until Out of Asia there has not been one that treats representatives of four national cinemas from their own point of view as well as from an international perspective.

Margaret Atwood John Moss, Tobi Kozakewich, 2006 Margaret Atwood enjoys a unique prominence in Canadian letters. With over thirty books to her credit in genres ranging from children's writing to dystopic novels, she is as creatively diverse as she is internationally acclaimed. Her success, however, has been double-edged: the very popularity that makes her such a prominent figure in the literary world also renders her vulnerable to claims of being a sell-out, as she relates in her Empson lectures. The Open Eye negotiates the space between these positions, acknowledging Atwood's remarkable achievement while considering how it impacts on national politics and identity. The range of perspectives in this volume is stimulating and enlightening. The Open Eye begins with a focus on Atwood as she presents herself and is presented in Canada and abroad, and then proceeds to consider more broadly the intersection of life and literature that Atwood's works and persona effect. It offers fresh insight into Atwood's early writing, redresses the critical void regarding her poetry and shorter prose pieces, and provides a critical base from which readers can assess Atwood's most recent novels. A common thread throughout these essays is the recognition of Atwood's importance in the literary realm in general and in Canadian literature more particularly. Published in English.
